Title of story: Camping Adventure

Page 0

Camping is a genuine experience for a family. Life in a tent is very different from life at home. Outside there is a lot to discover and you won't get bored at all. We ventured on our first camping trip with dad at the beginning of our summer holidays. Just 2 days. Dad, my sister Luisa & me. No mummy.

- a) The trip to the campsite was about 3 hours and in order to overcome the boredom, Luisa and I started to think about how our camp could look like (where to put the tent, where to make the campfire, where to place the hammock) and immediately made a drawing out of it, so that we could start setting up the camp as soon as we arrived.
- b) It was a long and boring trip to the campsite. Dad had to concentrate on driving and hardly spoke at all, Luisa was listening to her favourite songs on her headphones and thus I was given the great chance to eventually complete my mobile games without getting distracted by both.

Dad was searching for a suitable place near the tent and sorted out the wood that he found nearby, placed old newspapers underneath and lighted everything. Now we were ready and could start the preparations for the dinner. We could choose the dinner menu ourselves.

- a) We didn't have to think twice. Louise fetched the goulash and cans of vegetables from the car, I poured everything together into a large pot and warmed it over the fire. Dad was watching us and could hardly wait until the dinner was finally ready.
- b) We had a great idea. Luisa & I brushed and cut the vegetables we had brought along, we peeled the potatoes and skewered them onto small wooden shavings we had collected beforehand and dad conjured up a wonderful soup for all of us in a large pot. We enjoyed our first dinner together under the open sky.

Once dad had found the right place for the campfire, he carefully studied the instructions for the instant campfire and before long we had a big fire and could start with the preparations for our dinner. We compiled the menu ourselves.

- a) We picked up the cans of vegetables & goulash soup from the car and dad turned it into a delicious dinner for us. We were sitting around the campfire, were watching dad cooking and were looking forward to the goulash soup with canned vegetables.
- b) We already had a plan. We chopped up the vegetables we had brought along, peeled potatoes and skewered them on wooden sticks we had gathered from the near-by area & in the meantime dad prepared scrambled eggs with bacon. All the vegetables ended up in a soup that was cooked over the flame.

Once we were all full, the fireplace was cleared and the sleeping places were prepared for the night. Each of us had their own sleeping bag and we all slept together in a big 4-man tent. It had not yet been dark when we finished and were not tired yet. All we needed was an idea how to spend this wonderful summer evening. Dad proposed to create our special family camping song.

- a) Creating our own song seemed too demanding. I came up with a better idea. I suggested to search for our favorite songs on YouTube, play them and sing along loudly. All agreed. We had a lot of fun. Luisa was the first to fall asleep after 2 hours, and dad and I later followed.
- b) What a great idea. Dad picked up the guitar from the car and each was asked to choose his favourite song. Whenever we didn't know the lyrics, we just sang spontaneously what came to our minds. In the end we composed a camp song for mummy and after 2 hours we all fell asleep with a smile on our faces.

As soon as we finished our soup, we started arranging our sleeping places inside the tent. When Luisa opened her sleeping bag, a big spider climbed out, but quickly hid in the corner of the tent. Luisa started to scream and refused to sleep in the tent until the spider was found. Now I had to act quickly.

- a) I called out for dad very loudly so that he would get the spider out of the tent and then I hid behind Luisa. Dad was able to catch the spider successfully and dropped it back into nature.
- b) Immediately an idea came into my mind. I ran to the campfire, fetched an empty goulash can and went back to the tent. After a couple of minutes, the spider crawled out of its hiding place and I caught it with the can and dropped it far away from the campsite.

We then decided that we wanted sleep outside, so we put the sleeping bags outside the tent and we lay down together under the open sky, watched the stars and listened to the silence. During this time:

- a) The silence and darkness awakened my phantasy and I started to tell a story about a family hiking in the forest and getting lost in the darkness. Dad continued telling the story once I got stuck and by the time it was Luisa's turn, we realized that she was already in a deep and heavy sleep.
- b) Dad took out his laptop and started to work through a few more emails and Luisa and I were allowed to play with our mobiles until our eyes were shut out of tiredness.

On the next morning we woke up very early. Dad was first up and started to arrange the breakfast. As mummy was not around, she made us promise her before leaving that we would keep her up to date. To bridge the waiting time for breakfast, we put mummy's request into action:

- a) Luisa & I had already brought several postcards from home with us, so Luisa wrote the camping song in a beautiful font on the cards and adorned them with many small drawings which showed us in different activities. We planned to drop the cards into a mail box at the next village later in the day.
- b) I took a selfie of Luisa and me in the tent with my mobile phone. We both liked the first picture already. Then we went to dad and took another picture of us all together and sent it to mummy via WhatsApp. Task completed.

After we had breakfast, we gathered in front of the tent and were wondering about the activities for the day. All of a sudden, we heard a soft whimper and footsteps that seemed to come from the forest nearby. As we turned around, two other kids appeared before us crying, being obviously lost. They did not seem to be from the region and did not understand our language. We were forced to act:

- a) Luisa quickly fetched her mobile phone from the tent. Unfortunately, the battery was almost dead. It took her quite some time to activate the voice program. Dad said they were German and we then used Google Translator to try to get them into a conversation and calm them down. A few minutes later, their parents arrived at the tent. They had been looking for them.
- b) I remembered our family game evenings playing pantomime together and tried to find out with my hands and feet who they were and how we could help them. Their crying turned seamlessly into laughter and soon we heard loud voices from the forest nearby. Their parents had already been searching for them.

After this exciting incident, we decided to explore the neighbourhood nearer to our campsite by foot. Dad was looking for interesting places to visit in a regional guidebook and we agreed to visit a mill in the next village. But to get there we had to cross a small river which was not that deep. How could we do it?

- a) Dad could not carry us on his back, as he had a back ache that day. Thus, we decided to go back home. I and Luisa were pleased to have some time left in the day to play videogames at home.
- b) Luisa and I began to look for some big stones near the river. We threw the stones into the river and with our feet groping for the stones we effortlessly reached the other side. The visit to the mill was the highlight of our trip!

Our camping trip came to an end far too quickly. Sitting together around a campfire, looking at the starry sky and hunting spiders. The trip was an unforgettable experience with lots of quality time with our dad. This is a very rare experience. We all said that next time we would stay longer and visit more places in the area, such as the mill in the village we didn't manage to see. Maybe next time we will take our mummy we us, too.

Two wonderful days came to an end far too quickly. Sitting together around a campfire, looking at the starry sky, hunting spiders, crossing a river and visiting a real mill for the first time! The trip was an unforgettable experience with lots of quality time with our dad. This is a very rare experience. Next time we would like to stay even longer and maybe we will take our mummy with us, too.
