Title of story: A Stroll through the City

Page 1

It's Saturday afternoon and you and your best friends Christopher and Carl arranged to meet up in the city centre of Graz to hang out and chill out together. You guys decided to meet in front of the "Weikhard Church", a very popular place, at 3:00 PM sharp. After lunch you are ready to head off. To get there on time, you scheduled to leave half an hour ahead.

- a) You pick up your bicycle from the underground garage and ride along the cycle path to the city centre.
- b) You ask your mum to drive you to the contact point, because you will probably be too tired after the city tour to cycle all the way home.
- c) Your mother has to do some errands anyway and so she'll give you a ride and drops you off at the nearby tram stop.

At 2:45 pm you arrived at the meeting point. You are the first to get there and therefore you are waiting for your friends for a few minutes. While you are waiting, you have a closer look at the crowded main square, when an empty plastic water bottle draws your attention. Someone has thrown it on the floor on purpose, or it could have fallen out of someone's bag or backpack. What will you do?

- a) You leave the bottle where it is, because it is not your garbage and therefore not your responsibility.
- b) You take the bottle and throw it in the waste paper bin at the tram stop.
- c) There is also an empty plastic bottle in your backpack and you dispose of it right next to the bin as it is already full.

About 15 minutes later, Christopher & Carl appear. To your surprise, Carl brought a young girl with him you do not know. He introduces Andrea who has recently moved from Slovenia to Graz with her family. Andrea asks you and Christopher if she could come with you. You look at your friend's face and see that he does not seem to be happy with this additional accompaniment. How do you respond?

- a) You tell Andrea in a very friendly but firm way that only the three of you have planned to spend the afternoon. Which is why it's not possible for her to join.
- b) You want to be alone with your friends and since she is new in town, you recommended to her Kastner & Öhler, an old-established department shop where she could easily spend the whole day looking around.
- c) You invite Andrea to come along with you because you know that most probably she has not yet made friends in Graz. And maybe in the time you spend together she will become a new friend for you and Christopher.

You head off towards Jakominiplatz, a very lively square where your favorite outdoor café is located. On the way, you talk about the plans you have for the last weeks of summer. After a while Carl tells you that he really likes the T-shirt you're wearing today. You explain to your friend that you do not like the pattern on the back so much anymore. You like the T-shirt that he's wearing today better. Carl and you are about the same size. What are you going to do?

- a) You decide to ask your mum later on to buy a T-shirt with your new favorite pattern on it. The old one will then not be needed any more and can be thrown away.
- b) Although you like Carl's T-shirt better, you will continue wearing yours as long as it is still comfortable. Afterwards, you will take it to Caritas along with other used clothes.
- c) You are wondering whether to change the color of your T-shirt later on, so that at least the color is similar to Carl's T-shirt. It will certainly have a negative impact on the environment, but it is a cost-effective alternative when compared to a new shirt.

While walking, Christopher suddenly stops. He noticed that he lost his orange sport watch that he always wears. All of you turn around and walk back for some meters, when you spot the watch lying on the ground. As soon as Christopher attempts to wear it on his arm, he notices that the watch strap is torn. He is really sad about this. What are you going to do?

- a) You calm him down and state that it is good that the watch strap was made of plastic. Then Christopher can throw it in the nearest trash can and don't have to take it home.
- b) You feel sorry for your friend and hope that his parents will buy him a nice new watch.
- c) You tell your friend that you saw your brother change his watch straps just recently. Therefore, it is not necessary to buy a new watch. He can now choose a leather strap instead the plastic one.

Finally, you arrived at Jakominiplatz and realize that the café is closed today. So you agree to head on towards the City Park. In the meantime, you get hungry and thirsty and make a stop at a grocery store on the way, to be prepared for a rest in the park. What are you craving for?

- a) You choose Spanish bananas and packaged apples, pre-cut wheat bread and a bottle of mineral water and store them in a plastic bag.
- b) Since it is not tomato season but you are very much in the mood for tomatoes, you select an Italian variety from the can. Along with it, you'll also get a pre-packaged cheese roll and a large chocolate bar.
- c) Since your parents have changed their diet to organic for a long time now, you pick up fresh organic fruit, organic cheese and whole grain bread and take a still mineral water in a glass bottle.

A couple of steps across the Mur, the river that divides Graz, the City Park opens up, a green island in the middle of Graz. Many kids storm the enormous playground next to strollers and people settling comfortably underneath chestnut trees and on park benches. In the afternoon people love to meet here for a drink at one of the cafés. Today, all seats are taken and therefore you and your friends look for an empty and comfortable bench to rest near the duck pond. A few meters from there, there is a sign saying that it is breeding season for some rare ducks and people should keep quiet. What happens?

- a) Carl is curious, leaves the bench and goes closer to the pond where the nests of the ducks were hidden. Once he finds one, he shouts out loud to you that you should come and see.
- b) Your friends and you have a look at this beautiful scene. Many ducks and birds and even fish splash water once in a while. While enjoying the food you have brought with you, you all remain calm. You communicate mainly with your hands or whisper as quietly as possible.
- c) Christopher follows Carl, and when he reaches the pond, he starts feeding the ducks by throwing bread into the water.

After the short rest, you and your friends decide to stroll around the park for a while. More than one hour later you all feel really thirsty. Unfortunately, you have already emptied your bottles. Carl is the first to notice a well at a rest area in the middle of the park. A sign says that the water is drinking water. Little by little all of you fill their bottles with fresh water. You had already left the area when you look back and realize that you forgot to turn off the tap and the water continues to run. And now?

- a) Carl runs back to the tap and turns it off. No water should be wasted if you can avoid it.
- b) You ignore it and hope that nobody will notice that it was you and your friends who forgot to turn it off and continue your walk.
- c) You walk on and complain to passing pedestrians that some youngsters have not turned off the water. What a waste!

Meanwhile, the evening has come and you are heading back towards Jakominiplatz. You enjoyed spending the afternoon with your friends. On the way back you talk about the evening plans and the birthday wishes for Christopher. After a while you get hungry again and you remember the large chocolate bar in your pocket. You quickly realize that you are the only one who has brought some chocolate. The others do not have any sweets. What are you going to do?

- a) You have a sweet tooth but for now you hold back your desire for sweets and leave the chocolate in your pocket.
- b) You are happy that you brought some chocolate and enjoy it all alone.
- c) You split the chocolate into pieces and offer one to each of your friends. It makes you happy to share your sweet and you enjoy seeing their happy faces.

By 18:00 you are back at the main square. Being really hungry and thirsty, you finally decide to have dinner in the city. You then let your parents know that you will be home at a later time. Where do you have dinner?

- a) The restaurant you select uses products that are regionally produced, not imported from other countries, and are in season.
- b) You chose one of the world's largest fast food chains, known for selling a variety of convenience food items. Hamburger, which means ground beef patty, ketchup, mustard, dill pickle slices and onions on a toasted bun is your favourite meal.
- c) You prefer an organic restaurant with exclusively organic food, because organic food doesn't contain hormones and antibiotics and is healthier than any other convenience food. Additionally, they offer different portion sizes and sustainable leftover boxes.
